

Conservation Biology

- Where species occur: Better distribution maps at good resolution and metadata about them
- Merging data that were observed and recorded at different scales for analysis is an issue requiring investigation
- Cost-benefit information related to species conservation. Presentation for planners and policy makers.
- Data analyses, comparable and replicable, with relevant metadata
- Online workbench for systematic conservation planning